Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1, 5-11 and 15-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Recla (USP 5,301,538) in view of Jaduszliwer et al. (USP 5,747,348).

Recla teaches a fuel leak detector system comprising dual sensors, a computer and an alarm. Values from each sensor are analyzed and compared by a computer to determine if there is a fuel leak and the alarm is used when a leak is detected. Recla is silent to the claimed colorimetric sensor that will detect hypergolic rocket propellants.

Jaduszliwer et al. teach in column 1 lines 22-28 teach that hypergolic rocket propellants are extremely hazardous materials whose atmospheric release presents a serious threat to health and the environment. Column 1 lines 65-66 teach these propellants can be measured by a "... colorimetric tape moves at a constant rate past an air intake." The paper tape is impregnated with the appropriate colorimetric indicators.

It would have been within the skill of the art to modify Recla in view of Jaduszliwer et al., to measure a known hazardous fuel, such as hypergolic fuels, using the appropriate type of detectors, such as the taught colorimetric tape detector, to gain the advantages of safeguarding health and the environment.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-4 and 12-14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 7/10/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 5-11 and 15-19 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
